STRATEGIC NOTE OUTCOME PROGRESS NOTE

SHOWING DATA OF : 2023

By 2024, people live in a rule of law, an environment of peace and accountability through strong public institutions, media and civil society exercising their roles and responsibilities for effective and inclusive governance (related to SP_D_1.2 : More national and local plans and budgets are gender-responsive)

UN Women's efforts in Mali are indicative of a transformative impact on the country's socio-political landscape. The training and capacity-building initiatives have contributed to a tangible shift, with 42 women parliamentarians (members of CNT) now equipped to analysis and vote in favor of gender-sensitive laws. The adoption of a new Constitution guaranteeing the protection and promotion of women's rights, coupled with the ongoing revision of the national gender policy, signifies a lasting institutional change. The multipurpose room at the University of Bamako, operational since the 1st semester, is a concrete manifestation of efforts to empower women leaders and elected officials. The execution of activities on the institutionalization of gender-responsive planning and budgeting (GRPB) in the first semester of 2023 stands as a milestone accomplishment, with 84 public services members from Ségou, Sikasso, and Kayes benefiting from targeted capacity-building efforts. This success sets the stage for extending the initiative to the northern regions in 2024, ensuring a comprehensive and inclusive reach across the entire country. UN Women's interventions in Mali is evident in the strengthened capacity of public institutions and civil society at multiple governance levels, fostering reliable and disaggregated statistical data and analysis capabilities. The focus on gender-sensitive statistical data collection, processing, and dissemination has translated into a tangible outcome, marked by a comprehensive capacity-building program held from December 6th to 22nd, 2023. With the active participation of 90 individuals, including personnel from central services, institutions of the republic, regional state services, and civil society organizations, the training has successfully enhanced their skills in handling statistical and computer processes with sensitivity to gender considerations. The ongoing Gender-Responsive Planning and Budgeting (GRPB) activities reflect a sustained commitment to institutionalizing gender-sensitive policies, strategies, and coordination mechanisms on Gender Equality and Women's Empowerment (GEWE) at all levels of government and national institutions. The postponement of certain activities due to the absence of a political and electoral timetable underlines the adaptable nature of the initiatives, ensuring they align with the evolving needs of the political landscape. Overall, the outcome reflects a strategic and sustained effort by UN Women in Mali to create an environment where women, men, and youth actively participate in decision-making processes, resulting in a more inclusive and gender-sensitive democratic system.
